You will have many customers who will want Photographs on their monuments. The old method of doing this was to insert the photograph under glass, and fasten it there with some kind of cement. Time has proven this to be very unsatisfactory.

A process has recently been perfected, whereby a photo is "burned on a piece of china or porcelain" and placed on monuments, and is proving very successful. With this method an ordinary photo is transferred to a porcelain plate and the picture is burned into the porcelain forming a smooth covering which resists the weather and forever protects the picture. To get the best results you should furnish us with the best possible photographs.

We will be glad to furnish you the porcelain photographs, inserted in any of our monuments, in the following sizes and at prices listed below, which must be added to the regular price of monuments:
